FISSELL THEFT CLEARED UP

'Hunch' Played by Officer Fitzpatrick Brings About Solution

LOOT RECOVERED

Cook and Eveland Burglaries Are Admitted

With four confessions signed, four local youths were bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond, Tuesday, by Mayor B. T. Hedges on burglary charges. The four held in jail are Kenneth M. Styers, 23, married, of Town-st; Charles Holland, 19, of S. Pickaway-st; Dan Brannan, 21, and Merle Thomas, 16, of S. Court-st.

All four have admitted burglarizing the Fred Fissell store, W. Main-st, the A. C. Cook confectionery, N. Court-st and the Grand Theatre, and all but Styers have admitted robbing the H. O. Eveland grocery store on S. Court-st.

'HUNCH' BRINGS RESULTS

A 'hunch' played by Officer Fred Fitzpatrick brought the downfall of the gang which planned to terrorize the city and, as one of the youths said, "To show Circleville what a real gang is." When he learned of the burglary at the Fissell store Saturday morning, Fitzpatrick recalled that about 30 minutes after the 'job' was supposed to have been done he saw Kenneth Styers running south on Scioto-st.

Taking Officer Tom McManamy and Raymond Smith, night desk sergeant, with him, Fitzpatrick went to Styers' home and when the youth, married less than a year, could not account for himself he was lodged in the city jail. When he was being taken into the jail he told Smith, "I'm going to tell you something after while that will open your eyes."

NAMED OTHER THREE

In the presence of Officers Fitzpatrick, McCrady and Smith, and Deputy Sheriff Miller, Fissell, he named Brannan, Holland and Thomas as having been part of the 'gang'. McCrady and Fissell arrested Brannan and Holland and Smith took Thomas into custody. Then Styers told his story. He told the officers that the four had 'pulled' the Fissell job, the Cook job and that they had entered the Grand Theatre early Saturday but obtained only a flashlight, and a knife which they threw away. He said they then went to Fissell's and while he stood in the alley behind the Circleville Motors garage and Thomas watched in the alley beside the Pickard drug store, Holland and Brannan, waiting until a straw-wagon passed the scene making considerable noise, smashed the glass from a front door of the Fissell store.

Holland and Brannan ransacked the place but could not find any valuables as we had planned to get. Styers said, "We were going to show Circleville just what a gang was."

HAD LOOT IN BAG

The four scattered after the job and the loot, carried in a bag, was hid in the rear of the Crites mill on S. Court-st. Styers told officers he then took them to the scene and found the stolen goods. Holland, Brannan and Thomas all corroborated Styers' story of the robbery and the trio admitted the (Continued on Page Two)

COMMODITY PRICES IN GREAT ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Stimulated by a sweeping advance in commodity prices in world markets, security prices today forced ahead on a broad front to new highs for the recovery movement.

There was a rush to buy stocks as trading was resumed after the holiday. Blocks running to 15,000 shares succeeded each other on the tape and the high speed ticker fell 5 minutes behind. Gains ran from 1 to 5 points a share in the early dealings but these were reduced by heavy profit-taking at the end of the first hour.

Turnover for the first half hour was 900,000 shares, the heaviest yet seen in the current recovery.

BIRDS LOSE TWO

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6.—The sixth-place Toledo Mudhens today held a double-header victory over a Columbus Red Bird team that had several new faces in the lineup.

As 9,000 fans paid to see the double-barreled diamond performance, the Hens took the first tilt 6 to 3 after being given plenty of worry by the Birds and then stepped along to take the nightcap, 7 to 1.

Ray Mondron, of Mt. Vernon and formerly enrolled at the University of Miami, made his first appearance with Columbus and in the opening game poled a home run in the fourth inning.

Tom Carey, at shortstop, Kenneth O'Dea, behind the plate, and Ernie Parker, out in the garden, also were seen in Columbus uniform for the first time.

Bill Lee and Paul Dean the latter of recent no-hit no-run fame started the game for the Birds but both youngsters failed to go the route. Columbus had several chances to upset Toledo's apple cart in the first game but each time failed to crash through at the bat.

Craghead and Bean were the winning pitchers for the Mudhens.

the real life tragedy which brought to an end what Hollywood had believed an ideally happy marriage.

Officials were also investigating the reason for delay in notifying them of the death of Bern.

ALONE IN HOUSE
Bern was believed to have shot himself through the head before a mirror in a dressing room of his beautiful Benedict canyon home Sunday night.

Bern was alone in the house after Miss Harlow, accompanied by John Carmichael, the butler, and Mrs. Carmichael, the cook, had gone to the home of Miss Harlow's mother, Mrs. Marino Bello, for dinner Sunday night.

Bern's body, entirely unclad, was discovered in a small dressing room off the bedroom on the second floor of the home by Carmichael, who notified studio executives, including Irving Thalberg, who summoned police.

One bullet had been fired through Bern's head from a 38 caliber revolver found in his right hand.

The cryptic suicide note, addressed to Miss Harlow, was inscribed in a green morocco-bound notebook. It was undated, and read:

"Unfortunately this is the only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you and to wipe out my abject humiliation. I love you."

Carmichael expressed belief the crisis in the lives of the two must have come Saturday night when Bern went to the studio and dined with his wife.

"Mr. Bern's postscript to his wife said: 'You understand last night was only a comedy,' the butler declared. 'Something must have happened between them at that last dinner together.'"

Court Clash Likely on Walker Right to Run Again in Fall

City Charter and State Constitution Differ as to Legality of Resigned Mayor Seeking Re-election Before Current Term Expires.

NEW YORK CITY HAV

The announcement of James J. Walker, resigned Mayor of New York, that he would seek re-election this fall as a candidate of his official behavior has given rise to a lively problem which may precipitate a bitter court battle. In the ordinary course of events, a vacancy in the Mayorship is filled by the President of the Board of Aldermen, in this case Joseph V. McKee, who shall hold the mayoral post until the expiration of the current term, after which a successor shall be elected. The present situation, however, is without a precedent. Walker resigned with the intention of taking the judgment of his official behavior out of the hands of Governor Roosevelt and placing it in the hands of the people who elected him. But the State constitution rules specifically that municipal elections must not be held on the same year as a presidential or gubernatorial election, while the city charter rules that if a vacancy in the Mayorship shall occur before October 15, such vacancy shall be filled at the next general election, which is November 8 of this year. Thus, the legal machinery of the State may be employed to untangle the problem as to whether or not Walker has the right to seek election before the expiration of his current term.

PROHIBITION EFFECTIVENESS IN OHIO SHOWING DECREASE

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6.—Effectiveness of state prohibition enforcement struck a new low in Ohio during the year ended Sept. 1 State Prohibition Commissioner Edmund C. Mathews revealed today in his report to Governor George White.

Arrests, convictions, fines assessed and fines collected all were lower than in any other period in the history of the department since it was inaugurated Jan. 1, 1923, with a single exception, the report disclosed.

ARRESTS FEWER
Arrests dwindled from 4,543 in 1930-31 to 2,789, conviction (fell from 4,044 to 2,201, fines assessed slumped from $800,455 to $418,596 and fines collected shrank from $215,084 to $104,394.

Only once did convictions fall below the 2,201 total. That was in 1924-25, when the total was 2093.

Commissioner Mathews previously gave a hint of the condition of enforcement in Ohio when he told a state senate economy committee that disregard and lack of respect for the prohibition law has spread to the courts and to city and county officials.

He also explained that governmental economy has forced him to cut his staff of inspectors to 20, approximately one-half of that allowed other commissioners.

The state has $950,000 due it in outstanding fines from various counties which so far the attorney general's office has failed to require counties to turn into the state treasury. Mathews' report also said.

OHIO MILK FLOWS IN FIVE CHANNELS

Only One-third of Useful Farm Product Is Sold As Fluid Milk.

Just about one-third of the 980 million gallons of milk produced each year by Ohio farms finds its way to the tables of buyers in the form of fluid milk, according to P. A. Young, milk marketing specialist for the Ohio State University.

Two-thirds remains at home or finds a sale through four other channels.

Almost as much milk is sold for butter making as is sold for use as fluid milk. The percentages are: Young finds, 33.5 per cent as fluid and 33.6 per cent as milk for butter manufacture.

One gallon in eight stays on the farm either for table use or for feeding of livestock. And one gallon in eight is sold for use in the manufacture of cheese, evaporated or condensed milk, and ice cream.

Only 14 per cent of all the milk produced in Ohio is used for the making of cheese. 78 per cent is used in the manufacture of evaporated and condensed milk, and 6.7 per cent is made into ice cream.

FOUR CONFESS

Eveland store job saying that Styers was not with them.

At A. C. Cook's store which was robbed on Aug. 25, Thomas stood at the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. corner while Styers was in the rear at the corner of the Schlegel garage. Holland and Brannan pried through the window in the alley by the Weaver & Son store. Entrance was gained to the Grand Theatre by prying through a rear window.

Styers, Holland and Thomas were questioned in the office of Service Director L. E. Miller and Brannan was interrogated in the county jail office. All four of the confessions were taken by Smith in short hand. He then transcribed them. Besides the officers L. M. Brown, probation officer, heard the admissions.

HAD BROKEN HAND

Brannan had his part of the jobs Saturday morning with a broken hand. He said he had been at Akron and was thrown from a train on the way home.

These four youths were part of a gang known in the south end of the city as "The Little Al Capone Gang." There were other members but all of them were exonerated of having any part in the depredations of the four held in jail. The meeting place of the gang has been in a shanty at the rear of the Holland home on which is seen a large sign "Lefty Holland's Shanty." Inside the building are found the names of the 'gang', and their ranks such as captain, lieutenant and other positions. It was here, the youths admit, that plans for the 'jobs' they were to do were made. The four leaders would 'spot' a 'job' then go to the shack and lay plans to 'pull' it, according to the four. They used so much 'gang parlance' in their confessions that sometimes even the officers were not certain what they were trying to say.

MADE REAL PLANS

They planned just what time of the early morning would be best to make their raid, then Styers and Thomas would be posted with Holland, whom all said provided the 'brains' for the various burglaries, and Brannan would break into the stores and make their 'hauls.' All four would then go to the shanty and divide the loot evenly.

Holland and Brannan were spending all night at the shanty after the Fissell job when they were arrested. Both Mr. and Mrs. Holland, parents of the arrested youth, were unaware of what was taking place in the shack the quartet said.

Holland, before his arrest on these burglaries, was under a two-year probation from Judge J. W. Adkins' court where he had pleaded guilty to stealing a number of things from a box-car on the siding at the Stum-Dillard Co. He, at that time, promised to destroy the shanty but had failed to do so.

ALL PUT IN JAIL

Neither of the youths was able to furnish bond and all were remanded to the county jail to await grand jury action.

Articles stolen at Fissell's include 12 watches, eight diamond rings, four dozen set rings, two dozen Eagle lodge rings, six "Marble" hunting knives, and $12 in cash.

Labor Day Tournament Ends In Tie; Many Play

Kraft and Jones Have 67 Net For Herald Cup; Matches Continue.

Claude Kraft and Freeman Jones finished in a tie, Monday for the Herald cup emblematic of the annual Labor Day golf tournament. Kraft scored a neat 85 and with his handicap of 18 had a net score of 67. Jones scored 92 but has a higher handicap than Kraft, 25, giving him also a 67.

The two will probably play off for the cup.

Paul E. Adkins, club champion, had low gross score for the day with 84.

There were 21 participants in the tournament.

MATCHES PLAYED

Some interesting matches were played over the weekend in the club championship tournament.

In the first round, Paul Adkins defeated Dr. C. G. Stewart 5 and 4, and Mack Mader turned back N. E. Reichelderfer, 4 and 3. Mader and Reichelderfer have met in the first round of the tournament for the past three years.

In second matches, C. T. Gilmore, after defeating Frank Hamilton, in the initial round, played fine golf to defeat Lent Hanson of Columbus, 6 and 4. Hanson's putter refused to click and therein lies the story.

Joe P. Noecker defeated John Ryan, in a second round match, 4 and 2, and Dr. O. W. House of Williamsport, established himself as a contender for the title with his 5 and 4 victory over Dewey Black of Columbus.

Many golf balls are expected to fly Wednesday afternoon when the team representing Washington C. H. invades the local course. Washington has proven strong this year and the local club will be tested. The Fayette-co team is led by Stanley Haggerty, Willard McLean, Pat J. Burke and Fred Jones.

Members of the local club are asked to report at the Country club shortly after noon Wednesday in early as possible.

A Chip Off the Old Block

When Mickey Walker is outside the ring, his one delight is playing with his son and heir, Jimmy, with whom he is shown here. Mickey stoutly maintains that the youngster can lick anything his weight in the world. The "Toy Bulldog" is training at Summit, N. J., for his bout with Max Schmeling, former world's champion, on September 19th, at Long Island City. Part of the proceeds will go to charity.

BACKFIELD STAR LOST FOR SEASON

Freddie Smith Leaves For Prep. School; To Issue Grid Uniforms.

With the initial practice for the Circleville high school Tiger squad scheduled for Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the proposed plans and organization of a team by Coach "Pete" Herberholz had suffered a setback Tuesday as Freddie Smith, dependable fast-stepping half-back, was expected to leave for Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, where he will enroll as a student at Campion preparatory school conducted by the Jesuit Fathers.

According to Coach Herberholz football suits were to be distributed at 2 p. m. and the first practice session of the 1932-33 season would get underway at 3 o'clock Tuesday.

The coach was due to arrive in the city Tuesday and had not been informed about Smith's leaving.

BIRDS LOSE TWO

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6.—The sixth-place Toledo Mudhens today held a double-header victory over a Columbus Red Bird team that had several new faces in the lineup.

As 9,100 fans paid to see the double-barreled diamond performance, the Hens took the first tilt 6 to 3 after being given plenty of worry by the Birds and then stepped along to take the nightcap, 7 to 1.

Ray Mondron, of Mt. Vernon and formerly enrolled at the University of Miami, made his first appearance with Columbus and in the opening game poled a home run in the fourth inning.

Tom Carey, at shortstop, Kenneth O'Dea, behind the plate, and Ernie Parker, out in the garden, also were seen in Columbus uniform for the first time.

Bill Lee and Paul Dean the latter of recent no-hit no-run fame started the game for the Birds but both youngsters failed to go the route. Columbus had several chances to upset Toledo's apple cart in the first game but each time failed to crash through at the bat.

Craghead and Bean were the winning pitchers for the Mudhens.

BLONDE ACTRESS

the real life tragedy which brought to an end what Hollywood had believed an ideally happy marriage. Officials were also investigating the reason for delay in notifying them of the death of Bern.

ALONE IN HOUSE

Bern was believed to have shot himself through the head before a mirror in a dressing room of his beautiful Benedict canyon home Sunday night.

Bern was alone in the house after Miss Harlow, accompanied by John Carmichael, the butler, and Mrs. Carmichael, the cook, had gone to the home of Miss Harlow's mother, Mrs. Marino Bello, for dinner Sunday night.

Bern's body, entirely unclad, was discovered in a small dressing room off the bedroom on the second floor of the home by Carmichael, who notified studio executives, including Irving Thalberg, who summoned police.

One bullet had been fired through Bern's head from a .38 caliber revolver found in his right hand.

The cryptic suicide note, addressed to Miss Harlow, was inscribed in a green morocco-bound notebook. It was undated, and read:

"Dearest Dear, Unfortunately this is the only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you and to wipe out my abject humiliation. I love you."

gifts. He was never harsh, nor was she. They were an ideal couple, almost too much in love with each other."

Carmichael expressed belief the crisis in the lives of the two must have come Saturday night when Bern went to the studio and dined with his wife.

"Mr. Bern's postscript to his wife said: 'You understand last night was only a comedy,' the butler declared. "Something must have happened between them at that last dinner together."

Court Clash Likely on Walker Right to Run Again in Fall

City Charter and State Constitution Differ as to Legality of Resigned Mayor Seeking Re-election Before Current Term Expires.

NEW YORK CITY HALL

The announcement of James J. Walker, resigned Mayor of New York, that he would seek re-election this fall as a vindication of his official behavior has given rise to a knotty problem which may precipitate a bitter court battle. In the ordinary course of events, a vacancy in the Mayorship is filled by the President of the Board of Aldermen, in this case Joseph V. McKee, who shall hold the mayoral post until the expiration of the current term, after which a successor shall be elected. The present situation, however, is without a precedent. Walker resigned with the intention of taking the judgment of his official behavior out of the hands of Governor Roosevelt and placing it in the hands of the people who elected him. But the State constitution rules specifically that municipal elections cannot be held on the same year as a presidential or gubernatorial election, while the city charter rules that if a vacancy in the Mayorship shall occur before October 15, such vacancy shall be filled at the next general election, which is November 8 of this year. Thus, the legal machinery of the State may be employed to untangle the problem as to whether or not Walker has the right to seek election before the expiration of his current term.

PROHIBITION EFFECTIVENESS IN OHIO SHOWING DECREASE

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6.—Effectiveness of state prohibition enforcement struck a new low in Ohio during the year ended Sept. 1 State Prohibition Commissioner Edmund C. Mathews revealed today in his report to Governor George White.

Arrests, convictions, fines assessed and fines collected all were lower than at any other period in the history of the department since it was inaugurated Jan. 1, 1923, with a single exception, the report disclosed.

ARRESTS FEWER

Arrests dwindled from 4,843 in 1930-31 to 2,789, conviction fell from 4,044 to 2,201, fines assessed slumped from $820,445 to $418,596 and fines collected shrank from $218,084 to $104,394.

Only once did convictions fall below the 2,201 total. That was in 1924-25, when the total was 2093. Commissioner Mathews previously gave a hint of the condition of enforcement in Ohio when he told a state senate economy committee that disregard and lack of respect for the prohibition law has spread to the courts and to city and county officials.

He also explained that governmental economy has forced him to cut his staff of inspectors to 20, approximately one-half of that allowed other commissioners.

The state has $950,000 due it in outstanding fines from various counties which so far the attorney general's office has failed to require counties to turn into the state treasury. Mathews' report also said.

OHIO MILK FLOWS IN FIVE CHANNELS

Only One-third of Useful Farm Product Is Sold As Fluid Milk.

Just about one-third of the 980 million gallons of milk produced each year by Ohio farms finds its way to the tables of buyers in the form of fluid milk, according to P. A. Young, milk marketing specialist for the Ohio State University.

Two-thirds remains at home or finds a sale through four other channels. Almost as much milk is sold for butter making as is sold for use as fluid milk. The percentages are, Young finds, 34.5 per cent as fluid and 33.6 per cent as milk for butter manufacture.

One gallon in eight stays on the farm either for table use or for feeding of livestock. And one gallon in eight is sold for use in the manufacture of cheese, evaporated or condensed milk, and ice cream.

Only 1.4 per cent of all the milk produced in Ohio is used for the making of cheese; 7.8 per cent is used in the manufacture of evaporated and condensed milk, and 6.5 per cent is made into ice cream.

FOUR CONFESS

Eveland store job saying that Styers was not with them.

At A. C. Cook's store which was robbed on Aug. 25, Thomas stood at the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. corner while Styers was in the rear at the corner of the Schear garage. Holland and Brannan pried through the window in the alley by the Weaver & Son store. Entrance was gained to the Grand Theatre by prying through a rear window.

Styers, Holland and Thomas were questioned in the office of Service Director L. E. Miller and Brannan was interrogated in the county jail office. All four of the confessions were taken by Smith in short hand. He then transcribed them. Besides the officers L. M. Brown, probation officer, heard the admissions.

HAD BROKEN HAND

Brannan did his part of the jobs Saturday morning with a broken hand. He said he had been at Akron and was thrown from a train on the way home.

These four youths were part of a gang known in the south end of the city as "The Little Al Capone Gang." There were other members but all of them were exonerated of having any part in the depredations of the four held in jail. The meeting place of the gang has been in a shanty at the rear of the Holland home on which is seen a large sign "Lefty Holland's Shanty." Inside the building are found the names of the "gang," and their ranks such as captain, lieutenant and other positions. It was here, the youths admit, that plans for the "jobs" they were to do were made. The four leaders would "spot" a "job" then go to the shack and lay plans to "pull it," according to the four. They used so much "gang language" in their confessions that sometimes even the officers were not certain what they were trying to say.

MADE REAL PLANS

They planned just what time of the early morning would be best to make their raid, then Styers and Thomas would be posted with Holland, whom all said provided the "brains" for the various burglaries, and Brannan would break into the stores and make their "hauls." All four would then go to the shanty and divide the loot evenly.

Holland and Brannan were spending all night at the shanty after the Fissell job when they were arrested. Both Mr. and Mrs. Holland, parents of the arrested youth, were unaware of what was taking place in the shack the quartet said.

Holland, before his arrest on these burglaries was under a two-year probation from Judge J. W. Adkins' court where he had pleaded guilty to stealing a number of things from a box-car on the siding at the Sturm-Dillard Co. He, at that time, promised to destroy the shanty but had failed to do so.

ALL PUT IN JAIL

Neither of the youths was able to furnish bond and all were remanded to the county jail to await grand jury action.

Articles stolen at Fissell's include 12 watches, eight diamond rings, four dozen set rings, two dozen Eagle lodge rings, six "Marble" hunting knives, and $12 in cash.

Trend Of Straw Vote Tabulation Favoring Dems.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6.—"Straw vote figures collected in Ohio and elsewhere present impressive evidence of the Democratic trend that is general throughout the country this year," Henry G. Brunner, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, commented today. "Signs to be read in the only major newspaper poll already on the national ticket, are borne out by our own tests of sentiment with regard to Governor George White, Senator Robert J. Bulkley and other candidates."

"It is apparent that the hysterical denunciations of spokesmen representing the alarmed Republican leadership are not having their intended effect of cooling the enthusiasm of the overwhelming majority of voters for the Democratic nominee."

A recent summary of the Dayton newspaper's canvass showed these totals:

Jersey Economy

FAMED Jersey justice is now to be matched with Jersey economy if Governor Moore succeeds with his plans to lop the corners off the state budget. And like the justice the economy is to be speedy. The legislature and department heads have effected some savings but the state's chief executive believes they have only scratched the surface and has called for more and immediate action. Through the powers given by the legislature to curtail expenditures and reduce departmental personnel temporarily, he is in a position to demand dollar saving where economy is possible.

There are other states in which the same process is going on and some in which it may be more effective than in New Jersey but there are not enough states making a sincere effort to bring their expenditures and taxes down to the level of the reduced incomes of their citizens.

Many a thought has been given to the jobholders who keep the lawmakers and executives in office and who, in turn, are kept on the public payroll, but for the taxpayer the thoughts have been few and fleeting. In general his burdens have been increased rather than lightened that the jobholders and politicians may fatten in the public trough.

So it is news when the government remembers the taxpayers while it is in the business of distributing relief to all and sundry.

Bureaucratic Brutality

FEDERAL aid for state roads is wrong in principle when it takes money from one state and gives it to another, but when it subsidizes chain gang brutality and murder there is more than mere principle at stake.

Why hasn't that power-hungry bureaucracy at Washington used the federal road funds as a club over the heads of those few states which practice and condone cruelty in their prison labor camps? Better supervision would follow a threat to withhold federal appropriations from states in which there have been barbarities to prisoners employed in building federal aid highways.

It is bad enough to take money from self-supporting states to build road in beggar states, but the offense is compounded when the money is used to encourage the torturing of prisoners.

Penal servitude has been reduced to the level of slavery and a racket in states where politicians and jobholders have found it profitable. In order to supply the demand for prison labor the system has destroyed justice in the land where justice and liberty are guaranteed.

Unbelievable conditions have been exposed so often one must believe them, and yet the federal government calmly subsidizes them. But then Washington is busy spending money, not watching how it is spent.

The Maine Legend

AS Main goes so goes the nation is more legend than fact. The legend dates back to 1840 and enjoys wide credence today, although subsequent history has not consistently supported it.

What has kept the superstition alive is the fact that the Maine gubernatorial election is the only one immediately preceding the presidential election. Main would have it so because it enjoys the tradition and likes to see national politics a first inning worth political notice beyond the state's borders.

The facts in the case are these: Before separating from Massachusetts in 1820 the area now Maine was strongly Democratic in a state mainly Federalist in tendency. In 1840, when everyone including the Whigs expected Maine to go Democratic as usual, the Whigs carried the state. The following November General Harrison was elected president and the legend was established.

Moderate fertilization of wheat this fall, in the face of low prices, is likely to prove profitable, if the returns in both wheat and hay are considered, is the opinion expressed by agronomists of the Ohio State University.

Recent tests made by eastern experiment stations, including Ohio's, proved that native lambs when treated for internal parasites give as satisfactory gains as western lambs.

Each apple variety has its own picking season but all apples on a tree do not ripen at once. Some fruit growers now pick more than one picking, in order to pick the individual fruits at their best degree of maturity, considering the size, coloring and eating and storage qualities of the fruits.

'MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY'

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY

BY ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY COVICI-FRIEDE INC., DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Lola Carewe, night club habitué, receives a death threat, New Year's Eve. Previously her dog and parrot were mysteriously killed. District Attorney Merle K. Dougherty suspects Lola of being the "brains" of the jewel thief ring that has baffled the police. Although her husband, Gaylord Gifford, died practically penniless, Lola lives in luxury. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt places a guard in Lola's penthouse apartment, warning her that she must not be alone in a room at any time. Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother; Chung the butler, Eunice the maid, and Vincent Rowland, an attorney, are present. In the living room, the Commissioner finds a bag belonging to Christine Quires, Lola's guest. It evidently had been used that night, yet Lola informs Colt that Christine is at the Lion's Paw, a roadhouse, where Lola was to have joined her. Colt is surprised to find Mrs. Carewe's room in strange contrast to the surrounding wealth. Lola's own boudoir is a gaudy contradiction of the living room's elegance. Lola refuses to reveal the identity of the young man whose photograph adorns her dresser. Against orders, she enters the guest room alone. A scream follows. Rushing in, Colt finds her on the floor, unconscious. Dr. Hugh Baldwin, a friend, diagnoses the case as a heart attack. Lola dies; Colt calls it murder. Unnoticed, he takes something from the doctor's bag. Police Lieutenant Fallon reports that no one but the doctor entered the house. The elevator boy claims that Christine returned home about 12:15 a. m., before Lola and the police arrived, yet no other trace can be found of Miss Quires.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

"MR. COLT," snarled Rowland, "I am bored—I want to go home. My presence here is of no comfort to Mrs. Carewe. And certainly I can be of no conceivable assistance to the police."

Colt smiled frankly, and to my surprise he responded:

"I agree, Mr. Rowland. You are entirely free to go."

Vincent Rowland thrust forward his head in a turtle-like movement of incredulity.

"You mean you will not try to detain me here?"

"Exactly."

Relief flooded the aged attorney's face. With a mincing air, he walked up to the Commissioner and held out his hand.

"My dear Mr. Colt," he said, "it is indeed a pleasure to know that our administration has put a gentleman in Headquarters. I shall hold myself in readiness to be called at any time that you may need me. And by the way—Mrs. Carewe asked me to say to you that she will be here directly."

"Thanks, Rowland—there's just a question or two before you go—mind?"

"Not in the least."

"Did Lola ever tell you anyone might try to kill her?"

The old man shook his head.

"No. Only what you yourself heard tonight. Fact is, Lola was just the other way, poor chick. Hot-headed, you know—threatening to kill other people."

"Seriously, Mr. Rowland?"

"Oh, I suppose not. Perhaps I shouldn't have mentioned it. But she did say to me, two or three weeks ago, that the people who were bothering her soon wouldn't bother her any longer. I don't know who she meant—trouble is, her prophecy came true in a way she didn't expect, poor darling."

"Don't you have any idea whom she had quarreled with?" urged Colt, as the old man began to edge through the door.

"Lola quarreled with everybody. Especially that actor Everett and her friend Christine. Just temperament, I suppose—poor infant! Once she told me some people were trying to intimidate her. I don't remember the names. But she seemed to feel secure. Lola had her own ways of managing, I suppose—a very attractive and clever woman. Anything else, now, Mr. Colt?"

"But how can I help?" whispered the old woman, forcing a crumpled handkerchief against her lips.

I expected Colt to insist on pursuing this promising, if elusive, lead. But he seemed to shrug it off as not of great consequence—one of his deadliest tricks of deception. "Nothing," he replied, "except that I might need you later tonight. Mind?"

"I'll come whenever I'm needed!" Rowland assured us all earnestly.

Chung now followed the old man back into the living-room. Now he came forward with the Rowland stick, hat, and muffler. Rowland bowed to Colt with a courtly air and left the room. At once Colt closed the door, exiled Chung to the kitchen, turned to Fallon, and gave brisk orders.

"Put a tail on that old man night and day—six men working in three eight-hour shifts. Get Rowland up and put him to bed, until further orders. Stick to him."

"Got you, chief," Fallon was gone—after one of the most famous and picturesque of all New York's millionaires.

Colt's interest swung back like a weighted pendulum to the new complication of Christine Quires.

If, as Lowell Courtleigh, the elevator boy, declared, Christine had ridden up with him at 12:15 o'clock, where had she spent the intervening hours?

And where was she now?

With a puzzled frown, Thatcher Colt crossed to the mantelpiece and again lifted the purse of seed pearls.

"Lola told us this belonged to Christine," he murmured aloud. "I wonder—"

He began poking through the contents of the bag—the expected tools of beautifying and a small brass key which, as Colt now proved, fitted the front door. The Commissioner's quiet consternation was growing.

"Did no one see her come in?" pursued Colt, murmuring aloud his perplexity. "They were all here—Lola's mother, the butler, and the maid. When we arrived, one of the first questions Lola asked her maid was whether Christine had returned."

"And Eunice, the maid, declared she had not returned," remembered Dougherty, his eloquent blue eyes rolling suspiciously. "It doesn't look right to me, Thatcher."

Before the Commissioner could reply, Mrs. Carewe entered the living-room, in answer to Colt's summons. The tall, straight old woman was very pale and resolved to be courageous. It seemed cruel to examine her. But no police officer can choose between gallantry and results. Even Dorothy Lox was now sent from the room.

Colt offered Mrs. Carewe a chair. Meanwhile, I had found a pad of note paper and a pencil and was ready to take stenographic notes of questions and answers.

"Couldn't you wait for this?" the mother flung suddenly at Colt in her husky, embittered voice.

Colt came directly to the vital point of the present stage of his inquiry.

"Mrs. Carewe," he said, "did you know when Christine Quires returned home tonight?"

She shook her head disconsolately.

"No," she answered.

"Did you hear anyone come in?"

"No one."

"But you realize that Christine must have come in—"

"She couldn't have. She is a noisy sort of person. I always knew when she was in by the way she ran around the place. I don't see what difference it makes, anyhow."

"I think I ought to make one point very clear to you, Mrs. Carewe. We believe your daughter, was murdered."

"You do?" she asked in a flat, dead voice.

"Hence we may have to ask many questions that seem impertinent. I am counting on you to help us."

"But how can I help?" whispered the old woman, forcing a crumpled handkerchief against her lips.

"Simply by keeping calm and telling us everything we need to know."

"I can do both, Mr. Colt," she answered with dignity.

"Who is your daughter's lawyer?"

"Arthur Garfield Grant, down in Wall Street."

"He has charge of all her important papers?"

"Yes—and he has plenty."

"Has he the key to her safe-deposit boxes?"

"Yes, he has!"

"Now, Mrs. Carewe, do you know anything about the death of Lola's dog and parrot?"

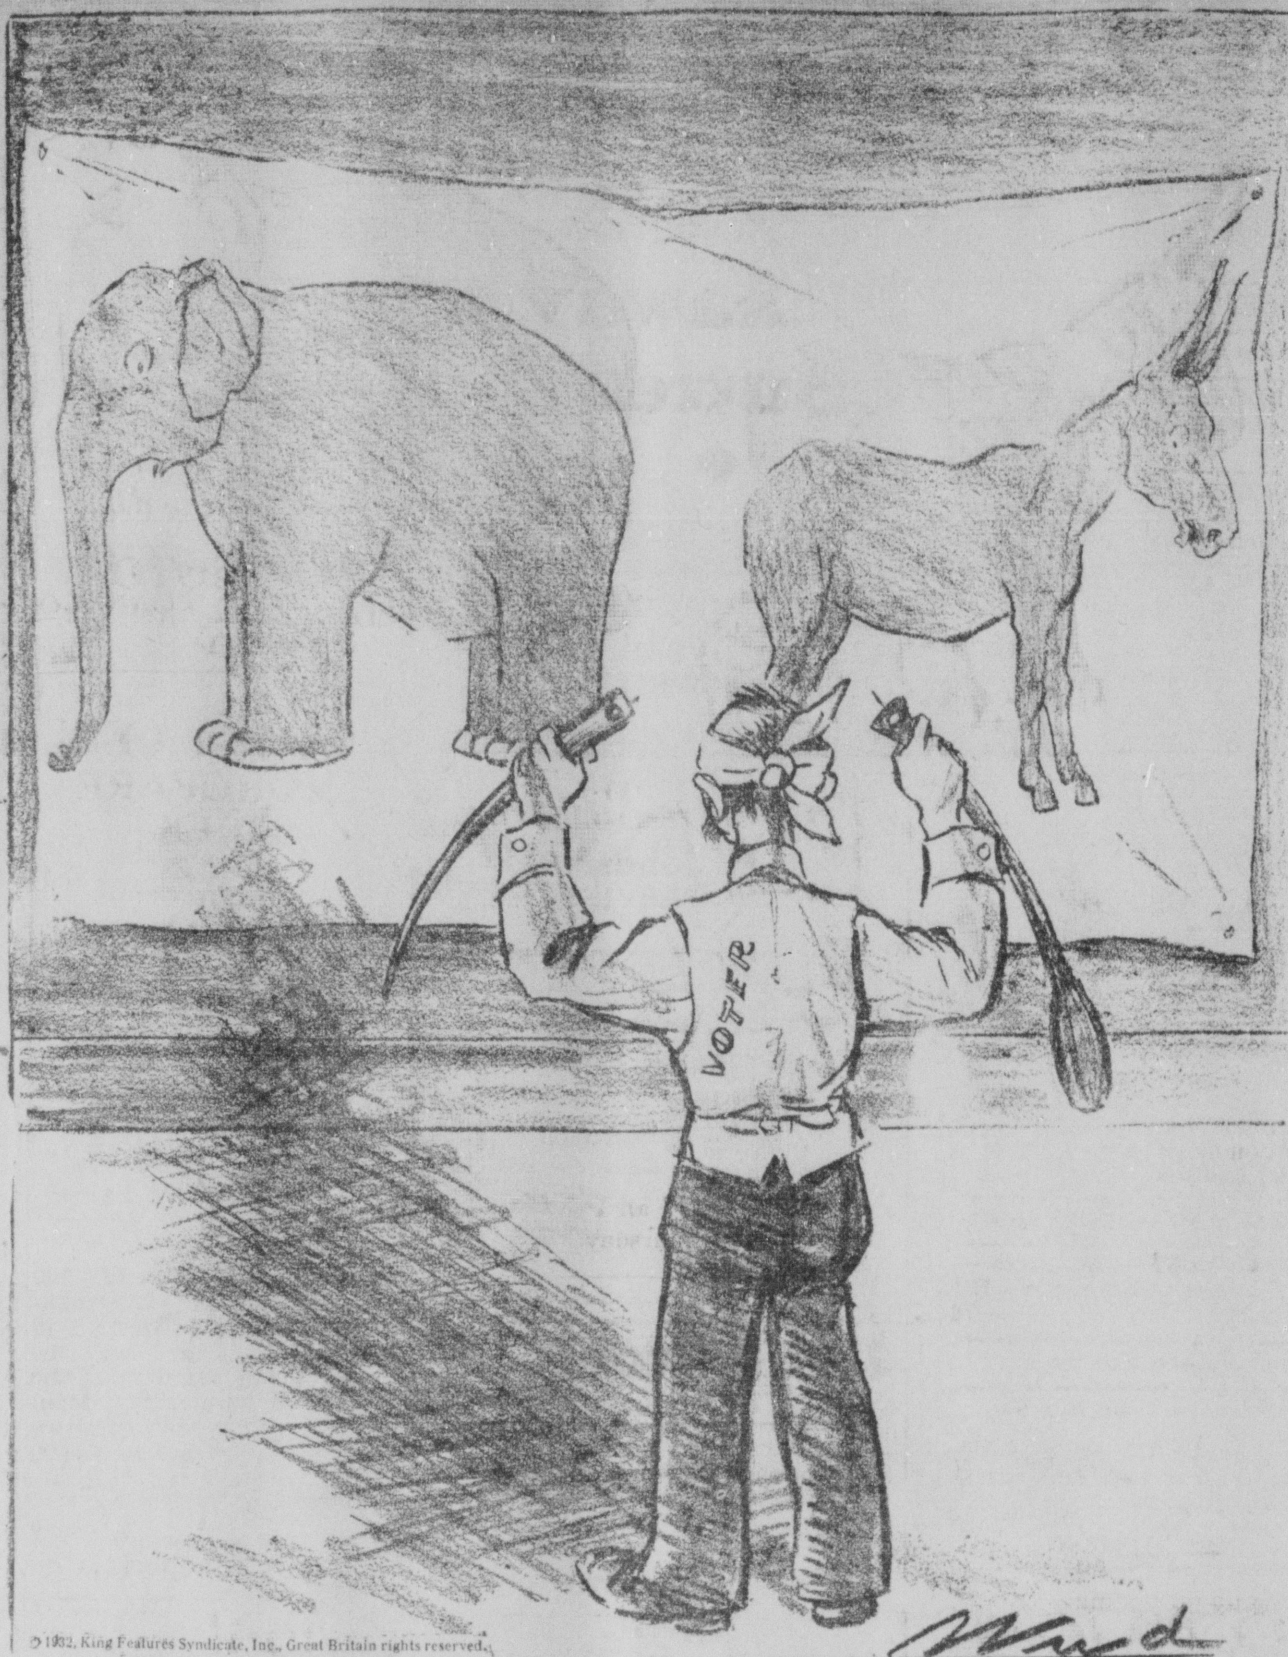

"I know they died—but I don't believe they were poisoned. I think Lola was superstitious that way—always believing people were against her and wanting to do her harm. She was that way from a little girl."

Colt nodded thoughtfully as he searched for a cigarette.

If Neglected Acne Will Persist

Prompt Treatment, Dieting, Essential If This Condition Is to Be Corrected.

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.
United States Senator from New York

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A COMMON and usually neglected disturbance of the skin is known as "acne." It has caused embarrassment and unhappiness for many a young person.

Acne is an inflammatory condition of the glands of the skin. In this disorder the skin is greasy and is spotted with many "black-heads" and ugly pimples. The pimples become infected, pus forms and then they are called "pustules." These disfigure the face and may cause scars.

Some authorities believe that acne can always be traced to an infection of some sort. Others believe it is due to some defect in the glandular system of the body.

The disturbance usually occurs during the stage of adolescence. It is more common in boys than in girls. Children of this age are usually fond of rich foods, candies, pastries and desserts. No doubt a diet of this kind is a factor.

In the treatment of acne, correction of the diet and observance of body hygiene are necessary. They are quite as important as direct care of the skin.

Foods which contain an excess of sweets and starches, fats and fried foods, should be omitted from the diet. Candies, chocolate, ice cream sodas, sundae, malted milk, rich pastry, mince pies, waffles, griddle cakes, maple syrup, fried sweet potatoes, pork and beans, breakfast sausages, salted nuts, cheese and Welsh rarebit should not be permitted.

The diet should contain an abundant supply of fresh vegetables, fruits, cereals, plainly prepared meat, fish and simple desserts. Meals should be eaten at regular hours. The food should be slowly and thoroughly chewed before swallowing. Proper elimination is essential. Plenty of water should be taken, preferably between meals. It is unwise to eat between meals. That is when there is a temptation to take the wrong foods.

The face should be cleansed thoroughly by using pure castile soap and warm water. The excessively oily condition of the skin can be corrected by the application of soap, medicated or plain. Soap should be used in the morning and evening. X-ray treatment has been beneficial. This should not be used except in severe cases. Lotions and salves should be used only when prescribed by a physician.

Care Is Essential

"Comedones," the technical name for blackheads, should be removed. This is a simple procedure when a comedone extractor is used. This can be purchased in any drug store. Never pinch or squeeze the skin when removing blackheads. Make sure the comedone remover is clean. Cleanse your hands and nails carefully before touching the face. Bathe the face in hot water before removing the blackheads. Finish the treatment by bathing the face in a pint of hot water to which some simple antiseptic has been added.

Please remember that acne can be corrected only by following instructions. Personal hygiene, care of the face and diet will overcome this disfiguring and annoying complaint.

Do not neglect this ailment. When allowed to run its own way, it may persist for years and become more and more difficult to cure.

Contrary to widespread belief, genuine college life of today is not one round of exuberant drinking, conspicuous "necking," roasterfuls of pretty co-eds, slick college sheiks and a generous load of care-free students whose only reason for attending college is to waste time, spend money and acquire "prestige."

Although these elements are present in the higher institutions of learning, they are by far outnumbered by the earnest boy and girl who really seek adequate preparation for the future. These types are realistically portrayed by Dorothy Wilson and Richard Cromwell in "The Age of Consent," poignant drama of the modern campus, coming to the Clifton Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

The film adaptation of Martin Flavin's Broadway play, "Crossroads," presents these co-future players as a pair of college lovers who weigh the surrender of an education with the acquisition of a marriage certificate.

Miss Wilson makes her film debut in "The Age of Consent." Others in the cast are Eric Linden, Arlene Judge, Allen Pringle, John Halliday and Reginald Barlow.

SWEDEN MOTORIZED

GOTHENBURG. Sweden — Sweden is motorized. Of every 100 vehicles one meets on its roads, only 11 are horse-drawn, the annual Swedish Road Congress here was told.

Planetary aspects of the late evening hours incline to deception and trickery. A great deal of caution should be exercised in all affairs, and nothing should be taken for granted. The emotions and feelings of others will not be easy to interpret, and the attraction will be to perceptive people, who will be inclined to sway the emotions of those easily gulled.

Surgeons should use precautions in administering anesthetics and patients may have more intestinal trouble than usual at this time.

Death of some one of prominence east of the Mississippi river may be expected. In the western states some one of note may suffer criticism or be threatened with exposure.

Children born on this day may be somewhat difficult to control. They may be misled by outward show.

Marquis de LaFayette was born on this date, 1757. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Jane Addams, 1860, famous social worker, founder of the Hull house; John Dalton, English chemist and physicist.

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

A last chance to see the latest fall style creations together with the Ohio premiere showing of "Hold 'Em Jail," starring Wheeler and Woolsey, will be had tonight at the Cliftona Theatre.

Nine living models make up the style show parade which is one of the best to be presented in Circleville. Jeffries and Colville store is sponsoring the show which takes place on an illuminated 40-foot runway in the theater. Mack's shoe store furnishes the latest style shoes and Mason brother furniture store has given the furniture for an appropriate stage setting.

Latest styles in kitchen smocks to evening dresses and "last-word" creations in fall coats, various types of dresses and suits and pajamas are presented.

The Jeffries and Colville store is to be complimented upon this presentation.

"Hold 'Em Jail" may be recognized as a Wheeler-Woolsey production at the beginning. It exemplifies their usual irrationality—but of course is filled with comedy and plenty of laughs from start to finish. From the minute they are "framed" and sent to Bidmore state prison as football recruits until they finally beat their old rival, Lynwood prison, and make their "framer" sign a confession on a chloroformed-piece of cloth in a time-out period of the football contest, they are downright silly. The American movie goes craving plenty of laughs get an over dose of them in this production.

The comedy duo is supported with an excellent cast to make the picture one of the season's best. Paramount news and two other features are included on the program.

Trend Of Straw Vote Tabulation Favoring Dems.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6.—"Straw vote figures collected in Ohio and elsewhere present impressive evidence of the Democratic trend that is general throughout the country this year," Henry G. Brunner, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, commented today. "Signs to be read in the only major newspaper poll already on the national ticket, are borne out by our own tests of sentiment with regard to Governor George White, Senator Robert J. Bulkley and other candidates.

"It is apparent that the hysterical denunciations of spokesmen representing the alarmed Republican leadership are not having their intended effect of cooling the enthusiasm of the overwhelming majority of voters for the Democratic nominees.

"A recent summary of the Dayton newspaper's canvass showed these totals:

WATCH 4 POINTS IN CANNING CORN

Pressure Cooker Method is Found Best By Specialists In Nutrition.

Causes of failure in the home canning of corn are usually one of four when the pressure cooker method of canning is followed. These are: too tight packing of the corn in the jars; letting the corn stand in a semi-heated condition during the process; putting the jars too close together in the processing container, and not keeping the boiling water over the top of the jars the full length of time of the water bath.

The secret of canning corn, says Miss Lella Ogle, extension specialist in nutrition for the Ohio State University, lies in handling it with all possible speed from the time the corn is pulled from the plant to the time the processing is finished.

Here is the method recommended by Miss Ogle: Selected in the last days of the milk stage, husk and remove the silk. Plunge the corn into boiling water and cook at boiling point five to six minutes, or until the milk is set. Then plunge into cold water only long enough to cool to a handling temperature.

Cut from the cob, two thin slices to a section, and carefully scrape the remainder of the kernels. Add just a rubber on a hot jar and pack the jar loosely with corn one-half inch of the top, preferably in

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

VOL. 3. NO. 35. Published by STEVENSON'S Tuesday, September 6, 1932

Mr. and Mrs. G., who live on P-st., have a modern home and furnished with modern furniture, with the exception of their dining room. That is, their dining furniture was out of step with the style of furniture in their home. It was some 20 years old. The legs on the table were large enough to furnish wood for four legs of the modern table. The G. family found that their dining furniture spoiled the picture of their home and they had us deliver some beautiful walnut dining room furniture to replace the old How's your home? Is there a piece or a suite that stands out like a sore thumb, spoiling the picture of the home? Buy modern furniture while the price is low!

About nine times out of ten when we mention gas cooking and baking equipment to Mrs. Farmer she says that she would like to have such an outfit, but she doesn't have the gas and cannot use such modern equipment. Well, ladies from the country, don't let that worry you. We can install a modern gas burning range (and we don't mean gasoline either) in your home and you can do your work with the same ease and comfort (plus enjoyment) that the city housewife enjoys. And the cost isn't prohibitive either. Take Mrs. W. and Mrs. B., for instance. Mrs. W. has been using one tank of Pyrofax gas for the past 20 weeks at a cost of only 60 cents per week and the tank is still working. Mrs. B. has gas in her first tank and it was installed 18 weeks ago, costing her 66 2-3 cents per week. The longer these tanks run the lower will be the weekly cost. How much lower will the cost go, or how much longer will these tanks last?

We know some families that have shown wise judgment during the last few days. They've made arrangements to have us deliver an Estate Heatrola to them sometime this fall. As a reward for placing their orders during the hot spell, each of them will receive a quantity of coal FREE OF CHARGE, or will receive an extra cash allowance. If you want whole house heating—including the floor at the base of the heater—place that Heatrola order before

Sept. 10 and receive some of that FREE COAL.

Housewife (suspiciously): "I see you have placed all the best tomatoes on top."
Huckster (from out of the city): "Yes, I do that to save you the trouble of hunting through the box for them." (To that we'll just say, "Oh! yeah!")

Hot ziggy, we've got old man Depression on the go! With from now until Saturday night to go before the close of this year's FREE COAL campaign, we've already shown an increase of 66 2-3 per cent in Heatrola sales over last year's campaign. Folks are learning that there is but one Heatrola and that is the Estate kind that warms the floor and gives MORE HEAT with LESS FUEL. No more FREE COAL will be given with Heatrola orders after Saturday night. Get busy and place your order now. To get FREE COAL with a Heatrola purchase is like getting money from home, but you've only a few more days and then no more FREE COAL UNTIL next August.

They are not present in Luckies

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

Mr. and Mrs. G—, who live on P—st., have a modern home and furnished with modern furniture, with the exception of their dining room. That is, their dining furniture was out of step with the style of furniture in their home. It was some 20 years old. The legs on the table were large enough to furnish wood for four legs of the modern table. The G— family found that their dining furniture spoiled the picture of their home and they had to deliver some beautiful walnut dining room furniture to replace the old. How's your home? Is there a piece or a suite that stands out like a sore thumb, spoiling the picture of the home? Buy modern furniture while the price is low!

About nine times out of ten when we mention gas cooking and baking equipment to Mrs. Farnner she says that she would like to have such an outfit, but she doesn't have the gas and cannot use such modern equipment. Well, ladies from the country, don't let that worry you. We can install a modern gas burning range (and we don't mean gasoline, either) in your home and you can do your work with the same ease and comfort (plus enjoyment) that the city housewife enjoys. And the cost isn't prohibitive, either. Take Mrs. W— and Mrs. B—, for instance. Mrs. W— has been using one tank of Pyrofax gas for the past 20 weeks at a cost of only 60 cents per week and the tank is still working. Mrs. B— has gas in her first tank and it was installed 18 weeks ago, costing her 66 2-3 cents per week. The longer these tanks run the lower will be the weekly cost. How much lower will the cost go, or how much longer will these tanks last?

We know some families that have shown wise judgment during the past few days. They've made arrangements to have us deliver an Estate Heutrola to them sometime this fall. As a reward for placing their orders during the hot spell, each of them will receive a quantity of coal FREE OF CHARGE, or will receive an extra cash allowance. If you want whole house heating—including the floor at the base of the heater—place that Heutrola order before

Sept. 10 and receive some of that FREE COAL.

Housewife (suspiciously): "I see you have placed all the best tomatoes on top."
Heutrola (from out of the city): "Yes, I do that to save you the trouble of hunting through the box for them." (To that we'll just say, "Oh! yea!")

Hot ziggy, we've got old man Depression on the go! With from now until Saturday night to go before the close of this year's FREE COAL campaign, we've already shown an increase of 66 2-3 per cent in Heutrola sales over last year's campaign. Folks are learning that there is but one Heutrola and that is the Estate—the kind that warms the floor and gives MORE HEAT with LESS FUEL. No more FREE COAL will be given with Heutrola orders after Saturday night. Get busy and place your order now. To get FREE COAL with a Heutrola purchase is like getting money from home, but you've only a few more days and then no more FREE COAL UNTIL next August.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?
